VIGILANCE COMMITTEE

First Since Stirring Times of the Fifties Formed.

MEMBERSHIP LARGE

Celestials Are Separated From the Caucasian Race and Placed by the Military in Camps Prepared For Them.

San Francisco, April 23.—San Francisco has a vigilance committee, the first organization of the kind since the early fifties. Dr. Donald McCulloch Gedge is chief. He fought in the French army, United States navy and China war. His chief of staff is ex-Auditor Baehr. The headquarters of the committee are at 2924 Steiner street. One hundred and thirty persons joined the organization at once. Applications for membership are coming in rapidly. The committee has charge of the Golden Gate valley district, near Presidio.

Military authorities in the North Beach district are separating Asiatics from Caucasians and putting them in camps of their own nationality.

A number of large manufacturing companies arranged to receive and care for refugees at their respective plants along the eastern shore of the bay.

San Francisco real estate board met in a synagogue and took measures for the protection of tenants who suffered through the fire.

The rain that fell after midnight Monday morning added to the misery of those who were endeavoring to sleep in the open air. Thousands of men, women and children, camped in parks, squares and open lots, were awakened by the rain dashing in their faces and water dripping through the improvised tents. Wherever possible women and children were crowded and huddled into regular canvass waterproof tents on hand. Little, however, could be done, as facilities were entirely inadequate to house all the homeless, and large numbers sought protection in trees, bushes and a few boards placed over their heads to ward off the water.

KEEP AWAY.

People Urged Not to Go to San Francisco at Present.

San Francisco, April 23.—The following telegram to E. H. McCormick, assistant traffic director of the Southern Pacific railway, from J. C. Stubbs, traffic director, who is at San Francisco, was sent:

"Please ask the press generally to advise all people not to try to reach San Francisco. Outsiders are not allowed to land there. They only add to the congestion of the cities around the bay, and it will be impossible for them to locate any one. All people are being well taken care of, and there will be no trouble if supplies keep coming."

The fire, which seemed to have died out Sunday, broke out with renewed vigor in the coal bunkers north of the Ferry building shortly after midnight Monday. The fire reached these bunkers Saturday, but was apparently checked after a hard fight, although the blaze stubbornly resisted all efforts of the firemen to extinguish it. Unless the flames can be subdued there will be grave danger that they will eat their way across to the docks north of the Ferry building and reach this great structure. At an early hour Monday morning the fire was burning fiercely.

SOME STRANGE SIGHTS.

Two Old Women Carried a Monkey, Another Pair of Bird Cages.

Portland, April 23.—Mrs. Jacob Bader and two children who were among those arriving on the Southern Pacific free train Sunday. In telling of their escape they said that among the crowds which surged toward the ferry just after the earthquake they saw two gray-haired women carrying a monkey in a cage between them. Another woman, with hardly a stitch of clothing upon her, carried two bird cages. At one time a lunatic ran past them with staring eyes, shrieking: "It's an alarm clock!" Again, they saw a woman jump from a second story window onto a stone sidewalk.

HAIR TURNED WHITE.

Sights Fort Worth Man Witnessed Too Great to Bear.

Pueblo, Colo., April 2.—B. J. Coffman, a traveling salesman from Fort Worth, Tex., arrived at Pueblo from San Francisco Sunday night. He had had nothing to eat or drink from Tuesday evening until Thursday morning. When he looked out over the city and saw the falling buildings and flames shooting into the sky he fell upon his hands and knees and buried his face in the sand, believing the end of the world had come. As a result of the strain to which he was subjected Mr. Coffman's hair is now almost perfectly white.

LENGTH OF FIRE LINE.

According to Measurement It Extends Twenty-Six Miles.

SIX SETS OF FLATS.

Some Three Hundred Houses In One Section Were Drenched With the Juice of Grapes and Thus Escaped the Flames.

San Francisco, April 23.—The fire having exhausted itself with the exception of the still flaming embers in a thousand places here and there, the Associated Press, for the purpose of determining with accuracy the boundaries of the conflagration, sent out an automobile Sunday which skirted the fire district on its four sides. The register of the machine at the end of the trip showed that it had traveled twenty-six miles, which, therefore, may be taken as the length of the line along which the flames traveled. This area included the financial, commercial and most of the densely populated portion of the residence district with all the splendid institutions and great mansions that had grown up with the progress of the city. Extent of burned area is seven square miles.

Within this vast waste of smouldering embers were found three cases where human beings still have their habitats as before the fire. One of these was on the very summit of Telegraph hill, where perhaps a score of homes still stand.

There are also six sets of flats which remain intact. The courageous men and women who saved their homes, in their great thankfulness for the mercy shown them, have only the small complaint that in their distress they have been quite abandoned by the constituted authorities, and have organized a patrol system of their own. Some 300 houses lying on the north and east slopes of Telegraph hill remain to attest the efficacy of the juice of the grape in quenching the flames when water failed, for in this quarter the holders, many of whom are Italians, saved their abode by a free use of the red wines tored in their cellars.

The one remaining spot unburned within the district is bounded by Montgomery, Battery, Jackson and Washington. Within this district is the appraiser's building, in which is stored $5,000,000 worth of valuable wares belonging to the importing merchants of San Francisco. The saving of this and adjoining buildings is due to the heroic endeavors of Capt. Wolf and his men of Company D, Twenty-second United States infantry, who, with such means as they had at hand, succeeded in fighting off the devouring element.

LOSS OF LIFE.

Superintendent of Mint Leach Puts It at Three Hundred.

Washington, April 23.—The loss of life at San Francisco is estimated at less than 300 in a telegram addressed to the secretary of the treasury by Superintendent of the Mint Leach. The telegram is dated at Oakland, and is as follows:

"Stories of loss of life greatly exaggerated. Have been in the city every day from the first. Have men reporting to me continually from all parts of the city, and I do not believe the list will reach 400. My estimate from statements to me will reach 300. The fire did not travel fast, and the authorities took trouble to keep ahead of the flames, notifying people of the danger, and caring for the helpless.

There is not an epidemic of any kind, and no prospect of one.

FORTUNATE FISKE.

In Earthquake, Johnstown Flood and Galveston Disaster.

San Francisco, April 23.—J. B. Fiske of Chicago was sleeping in a room on the third floor of the Terminus hotel when the earthquake came. The second flight of stairs gave way when he was going down, and he fell to the hotel lobby.

"I guess I have my lucky stars to thank that I came through the Johnstown flood, the Galveston disaster and the San Francisco earthquake without serious injury."

The city auditor, the treasurer, tax collector and city attorney have established temporary headquarters, and are now making active preparations to resume the work of their offices. The vaults of the treasurer, auditor and tax collector are intact. There is something like $6,500,000 in the vaults of the city treasurer.

TWO HUNDRED CREMATED.

Twenty-Three Bodies Were Found In San Francisco Sunday.

San Francisco, April 23.—Two hundred bodies, by order of the coroner, were cremated Sunday. Some were known, but majority were too badly mutilated to be recognized. Twenty-three babies were found in the city Sunday. The body of an infant was found in Union square.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY EXTENSION.

Mass Meeting Called at the Courthouse May 12 to Further the Movement.

The Eagle has received, with the request that it be published several times, the following call for a mass meeting of all interested persons to be held at the courthouse Saturday, May 12, at 2 p. m., in the interest of extending the free rural mail delivery service in Brazos county. The Eagle has heretofore expressed its gratification at the establishment of the routes now in operation and heartily endorse the effort to extend the service as far as may be found practical. There are several populous communities that need the service.

THE CALL.

What is good for a few people in the county ought to be good for the whole county. The free rural delivery seems to be good for a few, why not give it to all who are situated so they can be reached? All who favor this move meet us at the courthouse Saturday, May 12, at 2 o'clock p. m.

Unorganized Counties Not Entitled to Participate in Conventions.

Austin, April 23.—The attorney general holds that an unorganized county is not entitled to a vote in state and district conventions. This was in answer to an inquiry from H. C. Hord of Sweetwater, chairman of the Democratic executive committee of the Sixteenth congressional district. The attorney general holds that for election purposes unorganized counties are part and parcel of counties to which they are attached for judicial purposes. This is the construction placed by the attorney general on section 120 of the election laws.

THREE SHOCKED TO DEATH.

Due to an Electric Wire Coming in Contact With a Cistern.

Houston, April 23.—As Bennie Blass, five years old, went to a cistern to get a cup of water he was shocked to death by an electric light wire that had formed a connection with metal guttering of building and the galvanized iron cistern. His mother went to his rescue, and fell dead across Bennie's body. An aged man named Graff, who resided with Mrs. Blass, the lady being a widow, who presumably went to the aid of the others, was also killed.

Mr. Graff had for years been working on a machine intended to be a perpetual motion affair. He stated a few hours before his tragic taking off that he hoped to have the device perfected in two more days. His secret died with him.

L. STEPHAN, Manager

SUM OF $13,500 NOW RAISED

For the Texas Woman's College—Dr.
Butler Takes the Field on May 1
for Four Months.

Sunday was an important day
in the history of the Texas Woman's College, and steps were taken by the congregation at the First Baptist church that will result in much and lasting benefit to the school.

At the Sunday morning revival service Evangelist T. T. Martin took occasion to make some very encouraging remarks in connection with the work and prospects of the college. He said that before he came here he had an idea that the school was so situated that it might not succeed, or at least not realize the great purposes embodied in the plans of its promoters; but having seen the work already accomplished, the broad field of usefulness open to it and the intelligent and well directed effort being put forth in establishing it, he now feels confident regarding its future. He emphasized the policy of the school to attract protestant clientage of all denominations, several of which are represented in the faculty, and the purpose to give thorough christian training, leaving the choice of church attendance and affiliation entirely to the parents and pupils. He also showed that while the Baptists are stronger in Texas than any other Southern state and have an incomparable larger field, they are behind nearly all the other Southern states in the number of Baptist colleges for the education of women, which fact alone is a sufficient demand for pressing forward confidently with the work so successfully begun here. Rev. Martin also made reference to the work of Dr. Butler for the school and his decision to remain in Bryan, his remarks containing well merited tributes to the invaluable personal service of the resourceful and indefatigable
president of the college.
Following Rev. Martin's inspiring remarks a collection was taken for the college amounting to $4100.- 00. This included a few subscriptions previously made, and increases the total amount raised for the college to date to approximately $13,500.00. This is a splendid showing, especially when the fact is taken into consideration that the school has had a year, or nearly so, of practical and successful operation, demanding continuous attention and infinite labor.

The congregation of the church formally granted Dr. Butler, the pastor, four months leave of absence, from May 1 to Sept. 1, during which time he will be engaged in active field work for the college.
Those knowing his energy and ability will not doubt his success in this new endeavor. Dr. Butler will occupy his pulpit whenever he may be here, and during his absence his place will be supplied.

The material for the first building of the Texas Woman's College is being placed on the grounds and the outlook for the institution is highly encouraging. In forecasting its future there is no such words as fail.

ment charging arson, it being alleged that he set fire to the Oklahoma Ice and Brewing company's cold storage
plant, causing a loss of $75,000,000.

Electricity Kills Young Man.

Greenville, Tex., April 23.—While Luther Bone, a young man, was endeavoring to put out a fire on iron roof at O. T. Lang & Son's lumber yard he was killed by electricity.

Triple Tragedy.

Memphis, April 23.—A special to the Memphis Commercial-Appeal from Durant, Miss., says that in a fight E.
N. Thornton was shot and killed and Marshall Jenkins and Deputy Marshal
Cross fatally hurt.

STERNBERGER'S STORY.

Heartrending Scenes Witnessed by a Volunteer Rescuer.

Salt Lake City, April 23.—Mr.
Sternberger of the firm of Sternberger, Son & Co., is here with his wife, son and a maid. He was on the fourth floor of the St. Francis hotel at San Francisco. After hurriedly dressing
he and his family rushed into Union square.

"We had barely got seated," said
Mr. Sternberger, "when firemen came along asking for volunteers to take bodies from the ruins just above the hotel. There was a ready and willing response. It was a low building on which had toppled a lofty one, and all in the former were buried in the debris. We heard the stifled cries and prayers. 'For God's sake, come this way! 'O, lift this off my back! 'My God, I'm dying!' and many others, nerving us to greater efforts. Finally we got to some of them. Bruised, bleeding, blinded by smoke and dust,
terrified past reason, the poor fellows who fell in the street fell from utter exhaustion. Those that were pinned below we could not reach, and their far-off sounding cries for mercy and life will ring in my ears till death."

C. C. Lanferwiler of Fort Dodge,
Ia., who was at the Grand hotel, says:
"I passed through Chinatown just as a good shock came, and all Chinatown was in the streets, gesticulating, crying, running around acting like a lot of monkeys. I left them to themselves, and I know they must all have perished. The authorities drove them up the hill and out of range of the fire. Superstition mastered them, and all sorts of pockets and joss paper was scattered all along the way."

BRISK FIRE BURNING.

Illumination Readily Seen For a Distance of Eight Miles.

Oakland, April 23.—A report was received from San Francisco at midnight that a brisk fire is burning in South San Francisco. The illumination can readily be seen from this side of San Francisco bay, a distance of eight miles. It is believed that the fire broke out afresh from smouldering embers that could not be subdued
on account of lack of water.

When the fire was said to be under control in San Francisco several frame buildings were standing in South San Francisco.

PARDEE TO PRESIDENT.

Fires Are Out, Weather Cool and People Cheerful.

Washington, April 23.—President Roosevelt Sunday received a telegram from Governor Pardee of California as follows:

"President, Washington: Thanks
for ships; conditions much better;
fire out; weather cool; people cheerful and being quite well taken care of.
No epidemics; whole country vying to extend our people aid and sympathy. We appreciate very much your help."

More Cheer Than Cash.

Oakland, April 23.—A wedding took place at the relief bureau at midnight Saturday night. Despite the fact that the groom had only $1.30, the newly married couple looked cheerfully on the prospect that confronted them.

Webster Beaten by a Woman.

In the somewhat famous case of Mrs. Bodgen's will, which was tried in the supreme court many years ago,
Daniel Webster appeared as counselor
for the appellant. Mrs. Greenough, wife of the Rev. William Greenough of West Newton, was a very self possessed witness. Notwithstanding Mr.
Webster's repeated efforts to disconcert her she pursued the even tenor of her way until Webster, becoming quite fearful of the result, arose, apparently in great agitation, and, drawing out his large snuffbox, thrust his thumb
and finger to the very bottom and, carrying a deep pinch to both nostrils,
drew it up with gusto, and then, extracting from his pocket a very large handkerchief, he blew his nose with a report that rang distinct and loud
through the crowded hall.

He then asked, "Mrs. Greenough, was Mrs. Bodgen a neat woman?"
"I cannot give you full information as to that, sir. She had one very dirty trick," replied the witness.
"What was that, ma'am?"
"She took snuff!"—Boston Herald.

TILDEN KILLED.

Prominent Member of Relief Committee Shot to Death in Automobile.

San Francisco, April 23.—H. C. Tilden, one of the most prominent members of the general relief committee,
was shot and almost instantly killed
in an automobile about midnight Sunday night while returning from Menlo Park by men supposed to be members of the citizens' patrol. A friend of Tilden's who was in the automobile was cut in the face by a bullet and another ball pierced a seat and struck
R. G. Seaman, acting lieutenant Second company, signal corps, in the back. The force of the bullet had been spent and Seaman, who had been detached on special duty with Tilden, picked the ball out of his cartridge belt. The shooting occurred at Twenty-second and Guerrero streets. Two men, suspected of having done the shooting, are under arrest at the police station. Tilden was a prominent com-

DEATH OF HUGO KNOBLAUCH.

Friends in Bryan received the sad news of the death of Mr. Hugo Knoblauch which occurred in San Antonio Sunday afternoon at 7:45 o'clock.

He was born in Calvert Aug. 9th, 1873, his father having died when he was 13 years of age and his mother with the family then moved to Bryan where Hugo was educated.

He engaged early in life in the cotton business under Gen. H. B. Stoddard and later with G. W. Smith & Co., and was considered, when taken ill, one of the best cotton men in the state.

Mr. Knoblauch has been in failing health for some months past and finally went to San Antonio where he had an operation performed, and gradually grew worse until the end came.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Minnie Knoblauch, three sisters and two brothers to mourn his death, Mrs. Della Mann, Mrs. Julia Bohme of Perry and Miss Tina Knoblauch, C. F. and R. W. Knoblauch of San Antonio.

He was mild and gentle in manner, honest and industrious, and his many friends over the state who extend their sympathy to the family in their hour of sorrow.

The funeral will be held from the residence of Mrs. R. V. Kernole in Bryan this morning at 10 o'clock, interment at the city cemetery, Rev. J. D. West conducting the services.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Oliver H. McGee to Miss Mable C. Haltom, Joe F. Howard to Miss Alma Walthal, J. M. Norwood to Irene Adams, and Rosario Todare to Catherina Montalbano.

GREAT DAY FOR THE REVIVAL.

Evangelist Martin Held Four Services Sunday—More Conversions and Additions to the Church.

The Sunday services of the revival at the First Baptist church drew larger congregations and were attended by splendid results. At 10:15 a. m., Evangelist Martin preached before a Sunday school mass meeting, again expounding the plan of salvation simply, forcefully and effectively. His theme was the "Brazen Serpent Pointing to Christ for Salvation." At the close of the service there were fifteen conversions.

"Reasons for Consecration" was the theme of an inspiring sermon at the 11 o'clock services, and was followed by three conversions and five additions to the church—Eleanor Wicker, Henry Butler, H. W. Dixon, Miss Lula Tabor, Walter Cole.

The total number of conversions during the meeting up to noon Sunday was conservatively placed at seventy-five, with twelve candidates for baptism and several received by letter.

The discourse on "The Four Social Evils" Sunday afternoon was a strong argument against card playing, dancing, theatre going and wine drinking, and was based on St. Paul's well known exhortation to abstain from things which cause others to offend, if for no other than this reason.

The talk to men and boys was a plea for clean, manly living, supplemented with an appeal to accept Christ for salvation from sin.

Sunday night the church was crowded to its utmost capacity and numbers went away for want of even standing room. Evangelist Martin preached a powerful sermon from the text "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life," and pressed the point that salvation is not dependent upon any other condition, that baptism, church membership and upright living are acts of obedience and service, and, to be acceptable, must be based upon love for God, and not upon the fear of hell or hopes of reward. Following the service there were two conversions and two additions to the church—George Wicker Jr., and May Conway.

Evangelist Martin preached his sermon Sunday night with another short talk about the Texas Woman's College, and urged that whatever else Bryan and Brazos county intends to do in aid of establishing the Texas Woman's College should be done now, with payments arranged in one, two and three years, if desired, so that when Dr. Butler enters upon his field work he may be able to make the best possible local showing in order to effectively induce others to help.

The services last night were well attended, the audience being especially attentive, and at the conclusion there was one conversion and one accession to the church.

Services at 10 o'clock this morning and again this evening at 7:30,

McGEE—HALTOM.

Mr. Oliver McGee and Miss Mable Clara Haltom were quietly married Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents at Benchley. Rev. M. R. Kelly officiating. Relatives and a few friends witnessed the ceremony, shortly after which the young couple and those present from Bryan returned to this city by the afternoon train.

The groom is the son of Mr. L. D. McGee of this city and was reared in Brazos county. He is a worthy and popular young man and holds a responsible position with a railroad company as telegraph operator at Lampasas, where they will reside.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Haltom of Benchley. Winsome, pretty and popular, she has many admiring friends who unite in wishing her and her young husband abundant happiness.

BUSINESS LEAGUE THIS AFTERNOON AT 5 O'CLOCK.

Out of respect to the revival services being held at the Baptist church, the regular April meeting of the League will be held this afternoon at K. of P. hall at 5 o'clock instead of at night.

Among other important matters requiring immediate attention is the matter of arranging for the reception of the large delegation of Houston business men now touring the state. These gentlemen will spend next Thursday night in Bryan and will leave next morning about 10 o'clock.

Another matter is to consider the advisability of advertising Bryan and Brazos county at the great Confederate Reunion to be held at New Orleans this week.

All citizens, and especially members of the League, are urged to attend this meeting.

F. M. Law, Secretary. W. E. Saunders, President.

Strange Pledges.

London pawnbrokers are frequently asked to take strange things in pawn. The other day a Holborn pawnbroker lent $100 on a fine horse, which one of his daughters rode until it was redeemed. The same pawnbroker once took in pledge a medical chest of poisons that were strong enough to kill 10,000 men. It was, however, a valuable deposit, as some of the poisons were very rare. A Kensington (England) pawnbroker about three weeks ago lent a sum of money on a number of autographs of dead celebrities.

BASEBALL.

The A. & M. College and Houston League will play ball on the athletic field at the college this afternoon. Admission 25c. The game will be called promptly at 4:30 and all lovers of baseball will no doubt see a good game. No one will be admitted to this game on season tickets.

SPRING CATARRH

E. J. Jenkins Sells Hyomei Under Guarantee of Cure.

The changeable weather of spring is directly responsible for the prevalence of catarrhal troubles in Bryan at the present time.

As a result E. J. Jenkins has had a larger sale for Hyomei the past week than ever before in the years that he has handled this reliable treatment for the cure of catarrh.

If there is a single catarrhal germ in the system, Hyomei will search it out and absolutely destroy it, completely eradicating the trouble. The remedy has made so many cures among E. J. Jenkins' customers that he offers to pay for it himself if it does not benefit even the worst case of catarrh.

The complete outfit costs only $1, consisting of an inhaler, medicine dropper and bottle of Hyomei, while extra bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50c. There will not be even this small expense if Hyomei does not cure, as E. J. Jenkins will return your money.

Woolen Will Wear IN ALL WEATHERS

Argue as they will, one fact remains: Cotton adulterated cloth will neither keep its shape nor wear under any conditions. Pure woolen cloth will. Our Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes are made of pure woolens, tested by the wool test, which is the beginning of all

Stein-Bloch Clothes

The only reason why cotton is substituted for wool in mercerized fabrics is to cheapen the goods. A house is no stronger than its foundation. So with clothes. Cheap fabrics mean cheap clothes; and no matter how shrewdly they are tailored, they will be untrustworthy. Stein-Bloch employ no mercerized or cotton adulterated fabrics. Their goods are pure caustic-tested wool, and the clothes made from them wear and keep their shape.

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test

The Stein-Bloch Wool Test consists of a boiling solution of water and caustic potash, the chemical action of which dissolves wool but not cotton. The two samples here shown were originally of the same length. The test proved one to be all wool, consuming the part immersed and leaving only the blackened edge. The other proved to be an adulteration containing a large per cent of mercerized cotton.

John J. Forger

By Grace Charles

"Then you have no excuse to offer?" Marion's voice was dangerously even. Dick Gordon hated those cold, accusing tones.

"I have no excuse—to offer," he confirmed angrily. "The way I am to marry should be content with my statement that there was a good reason."

"Unfortunately she is not," said Marion as she laid the ring on his desk. "I cared enough about the matter to come to your office to see you about it. Since you want to be independent, I give you back your entire independence."

His face white with anger, Gordon threw open the door and stood there as she passed through to the next room. Over in the corner John J. was busy with the mail, but he looked up with a grin on his freckled face to smile upon her as she went out. John J. approved of Marion.

Gordon went back to his desk. The golden circle lying there was too much for his composure, and, with a groan, he threw his arms forward on the desk and buried his head upon them.

It had all been very silly and yet very tragic. He had meant to write Marion that there was a meeting of the promoters of the L. and P. railroad and that he would have to be present to furnish them with estimates if he hoped to get the contract. If he could land that order his success would be assured, and in the prospect of winning out he had forgotten to write.

They were both high strung, and when in the morning she had demanded an explanation of his broken engagement without having waited for him to call up on the telephone he had angrily refused to offer any explanation or apology, and when she had come to his office they were both too angry to arrive at an understanding.

Gordon was roused by a touch on the shoulder. He sprang nervously up, to confront John J.

"Why don't you go home?" he thundered. "The office should have been closed half an hour ago!"

"I'm going now," explained John J., with unusual meekness. "But you oughter go up and see Miss Marion and tell her you're sorry."

Gordon grasped John J. by the shoulders and propelled him into the outer railroad people he's going to lose the chance of his life."

"Why do you come to me?" she asked coldly. "I have nothing to do with the matter."

"Quit your kiddin'," urged John J. "I heard you yesterday. You didn't speak loud, but your words came through the partition like they was bull. You threw him because I forgot to bring you a letter yesterday. It's all my fault for forgetting to bring up the letter."

"Do you mean that he sent me a letter explaining that he would not call last night?"

"Sure," was the easy reply as John J. dug in one of his pockets. "He was in a hurry, and I took it on the machine for him. Just tell him you're sorry over the telephone so's he can go to work."

Marion tore open the letter. "Dear friend," it ran, "I am sorry I can't come to see you tonight, but there's some guys I must see about that railroad matter and I can't come. I'm sorry, but you see this is awfully important, and I know you won't mind. Don't dance with any of the other fellows. I'm sorry I can't come. Yours till death."

It was signed with his full name, and Katherine's eyes twinkled as she read it over. John J. watched her anxiously. As the smile came over her face his own assumed a look of satisfaction, and as she replaced the sheet in its envelope he sprang forward.

"Does it go?" he demanded. "Will you telephone him?"

"It goes," she smiled as she crossed the room where the telephone stood. He followed her across.

"Don't give me away," he pleaded hoarsely. "Don't let on that I forgot to give you the note."

"I won't," she assured as she raised the receiver from the hook.

With instinctive politeness he crossed the room and pretended to look out of the window while she was speaking, but the sharp ears would listen, and when she called to him he knew that it was all right and that the important letter would be written.

"It is all right," she said as she came toward him. "I have telephoned Mr. Gordon, and he understands. It was very good of you to come up and tell me, John."

"Something had to be done," he protested, "and there wasn't anybody else to do it."

Marion leaned forward and kissed his freckled cheek. "I should be very jealous of you, John J., if you were a woman," she said. "You care a great deal for Mr. Gordon."

"He's all right," assented John J., "if he does have a mad spell now and then. I just let him rave till he gets over it; then he's sorry. You ought to try that."

"It's good advice," she smiled. "You didn't tell him that I was up here?" he asked as he paused at the door.

"No," she assured. "Then I should have had to explain about the letter."

"He don't like to have me butting in," explained John J. as he slid through the doorway.

It was not for several days that Marion told Dick of the pitiful little forgery made to bring things out right and showed him John J.'s idea of a love letter, with its inked over rubber stamped facsimile of his signature, but it was a happy moment for John J. when Dick shook his hand, man fashion, and thanked him for what he had done.

"Forget it," was the only suitable response he could think of, but Dick and Marion cannot.

Changes in Pronunciation.

It requires no very profound knowledge of English literature to ascertain that the pronunciation of the language has undergone a vast change during the last three centuries. The shrewd conjecture has indeed more than once been hazarded that the works of the Elizabethan dramatist would be unintelligible to a modern audience if the native and original pronunciation were adhered to, and certain, at all events, it is that in many well known passages of Shakespeare the very rhythm of the line imperatively demands a strange and unaccustomed accentuation of certain words. With the peculiarities of a later period most people are sufficiently acquainted. That gold was gold and that china was chancy during the Augustan era is matter of common knowledge. And who can forget Pope's description of Atticus:

Dreading even fools, by flatterers beseged,
And so obliging that he ne'er obleged?

The last mentioned mode, as well as the two others, lingered on well into the last century and was habitual with Lord John Russell, though they are all probably by this time as rare as Rooshia for Russia and rarer than Spaw for Spa.—Chambers' Journal.

How Arnold Studied Logic.

Here is an interesting story told in the life of Archbishop Temple:

Matthew Arnold got leave, at the last moment, to take in "Logic For Responsions" instead of "Euclid," which he could never master. The day before the examination he went to Jowett, who was his tutor, and asked how he could learn the subject in time, as he was wholly ignorant of it. Jowett said his only chance was to go to Temple and see if he would try to teach him in one day. Temple consented and, starting about 9 o'clock in the morning, talked continuously, allowing two pauses of half an hour each for meals, till past 2 o'clock next morning. Arnold had been provided with paper, but took no notes. He lay back in his chair with the tips of his fingers together, saying from time to time, "What wonderful fellows they were!" Soon after 2 o'clock a. m. Temple sent Arnold away to get some sleep, after which he satisfied the examiners in logic. He answered every question.

JOHN J. WATCHED HER ANXIOUSLY.

office, while that youngster insisted that he would be sorry in the morning if not just then. The encounter had at least served to rouse Gordon, and he went uptown to the club to spend a miserable evening trying to pretend to himself that he did not care about the broken engagement.

John J.'s "You'll be sorry in the morning if you ain't now" was prophetic. Dick moped over his desk all the morning, unable to do any work. A dozen times he reached for the telephone to call Marion up and ask her forgiveness, and each time he set it irresolutely down again, declaring to himself that Marion should have known that he had a good excuse and that she should have waited until he could call her up. It was on her account as well as his own that he was worried about that contract, and if she could not realize that a half mentioned engagement might have slipped his mind in the pressure of more important matters that was her fault, not his.

Half a dozen times during the morning John J. stole into the room to remind him that those figures for the L. and P. had to be sent out that evening. Each time he was met with a torrent of rebuke. Then he put on his hat and went out of the office, though his lunch hour was not until 1 o'clock.

He knew where Marion lived, and the statement that he had a message for her was enough to get him past the door. Presently the butler came back wearing a solemn frown.

"Miss Darling does not care to receive the message," he said.

"You tell her I want to see her myself," announced John J.

For a moment the butler hesitated, and through that hesitation was lost. Somehow John J. usually got what he wanted, but he was the only person not surprised when Marion sent down word that she would see him.

"I want to tell you about Mr. Gordon," he began as the butler closed the door. "Say, he's awful about the place. He can't do any work, and he can't keep his hands off the telephone. If he don't quiet down and write those
